The Department of Social and Preventive Medicine at the School of Public Health at the Université de Montréal (ESPUM) is recruiting an Assistant Professor for a career in teaching and research in Global Health. We understand Global Health as a field of study, research and practice aimed at improving health and health equity worldwide. Global health research and practice thus pose challenges in epistemology, ethics, and methodology requiring inter- and transdisciplinary approaches.

The Université de Montréal is francophone, Québec’s largest university, and a global centre of excellence in research and training in public health, including global health. The ESPUM is accredited by the Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH). The Department of Social and Preventive Medicine offers postgraduate training in research and professional programmes at the Master’s and Doctoral levels in all public health specialisations, including global health. Our professors are affiliated with several research centres of excellence in Montreal and have numerous national and international collaborations.

Responsibilities:
Teaching primarily at the Master’s and Doctoral levels; supervision of Master’s and Doctoral students (thesis and professional). Development and implementation of a programme of research (either linked to one of our existing areas, or in a complementary domain). Collegial participation in the life of the department and the school, including in departmental activities and committees. Outreach/engagement with the broader scientific and global health policy and practice communities. The selected candidate will contribute significantly to the development of global health as a major field of teaching, research and practice at the ESPUM.

Requirements:
PhD in a discipline relevant to global health. Experience in global health research. Experience and versatility in teaching and in multidisciplinary research a significant asset. The language of instruction is French.

Salary and benefits:
Université de Montréal offers a competitive salary and comprehensive benefits package.

Commencement date: June 2018

Deadline for submitting applications: December 18, 2017 (including two letters of recommendation sent separately to Dr Christina Zarowsky)

Interested candidates should submit their cv together with a letter of motivation describing their potential contributions to teaching and to the development of the Department and the school to:

Docteur Christina Zarowsky, Directrice
a/s Madame Carole Bureau
Département de médecine sociale et préventive, ESPUM
Université de Montréal, C.P. 6128, Succursale Centre-ville
Montréal (Québec) H3C 3J7
Fax: (514) 343-5645 E-mail: carole.bureau@umontreal.ca

* Language Policy
Université de Montréal is a Québec university with an international reputation. French is the language of instruction. To renew its teaching faculty, the University is intensively recruiting the world’s best specialists. In accordance with the institution’s language policy, Université de Montréal provides support for newly-recruited faculty to attain proficiency in French

Confidentiality
The Université de Montréal application process allows all regular professors in the Department to have access to all documents unless the applicant explicitly states in her or his cover letter that access to the application should be limited to the selection committee. This restriction on accessibility will be lifted if the applicant is invited for an interview.

Equal Access Employment Program
Through its Equal Access Employment Program, Université de Montréal invites women, Aboriginal people, visible and ethnical minorities, as well as persons with disabilities to apply. During the recruitment process, our selection tools will be adapted to meet the needs of people with disabilities who request it. Be assured of the confidentiality of this information.

Université de Montréal is committed to the inclusion and the diversity of its staff and also encourages people of all sexual and gender identities to apply.

Immigration Requirements
We invite all qualified candidates to apply at UdeM. However, in accordance with immigration requirements in Canada, please note that priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.